

COLLEGE OF AGRICULTURE AND ENVIRONMENTAL SCIENCES

Academics

THE EDUCATION OF OUR STUDENTS is the college's top priority. Our classrooms, laboratories and design studios provide students practical, hands-on education for the 21st century.

With 1,153 students the CAES is the largest agricultural school among the 1890 Land Grant Universities.

Source: Food and Agricultural Education Information System (FAEIS)

The CAES is the nation's largest producer of African Americans with Degrees in Agriculture.

Source: Diverse Issues in Higher Education

The CAES produces the second highest number of African Americans who go on to pursue the D.V.M. in the United States.

Source: Diverse Issues in Higher Education

9 Bachelor of Science Degrees

- Agricultural and Environmental Systems
- Agricultural Education
- Animal Science
- Biological Engineering
- Child Development and Family Studies
- Family and Consumer Sciences
- Food and Nutritional Sciences
- Laboratory Animal Science
- Landscape Architecture

3 Master of Science Degrees

- Agricultural Education
- Agricultural and Environmental Systems
- Food and Nutritional Sciences

1 Doctor of Philosophy

- Agriculture and Environmental Sciences

8 Accredited Programs: All CAES academic programs in disciplines that offer national accreditation are accredited.

74.6%
first year
RETENTION RATE

97%
faculty who hold a doctorate or terminal degree in their respective fields.

The CAES offers the nation's second most affordable online bachelor's degree in agricultural science (agricultural education)

Source: affordableschools.net

NORTH CAROLINA AGRICULTURAL AND TECHNICAL STATE UNIVERSITY

AGRICULTURE AND ENVIRONMENTAL SCIENCES